The railroads will make $50,000 out of base-ball this year.

The Salvation Army is making a bold attack on Washington City.

The strike at the Studebaker wagon works has been settled by an advance of wages.

2,000 iron-workers in Boston have struck for higher wages. The company assert that they are making no money.

Bradstreet's agency reports continued stagnation of business in the Southwest, and a dull market in the East owing to the strikes. It is estimated that there are 55,000 laborers now on a strike.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to discontinue the practice of sending committees over the country to accompany the dead bodies of Congressmen to their graves. This is a real common sense idea. If a dead Congressman can't ride on a train without a committee of his mortal contemporaries to hold him down, he ought to be dumped overboard.

That old school of saints which styles itself the "Salvation Army" invaded Washington this week in uniforms of dark breeches, red jackets, blue caps with gold bands, headed by a brass band. Four negroes in uniform attended as vivandiers. A hymn for the benefit of the President and Congressmen of all parties was roared out to the air of "Nancy Lee." At the latest date Senator Edmunds continued stiff-necked, and the marble effigies at the Capital and Jackson's equestrian statue in statu quo.

Demorest's Monthly Magazine is one of the most desirable of the household magazines published, combining as it does, so much to improve and interest the home circle. The April number contains some admirable articles, such as "The Castle of Heidelberg," "The Industrial Problem," by Jennie Jones, and "Lack Making." That other person, Mrs. Hart's serial, is continued, and instructions are given in china painting and embossing in metal. The prohibition articles are all good. W. Demorest contributing "The Irrepressible Conflict." The frontispiece is a beautiful steel engraving, "The Message."

The Courier-Journal, speaking of the gambling bill, says: "The gamblers have been working quietly but persistently to delay, and then defeat, the new bill. It remains to be seen whether or not they control the Legislature. That will have to be at once determined. The bill will be called up to-day. It can no longer be dodged. Opposition which has heretofore been covert must be open. So presented there ought to be no question as to the result. The bill has the support of all law-abiding elements of society. It is opposed by only one element. The vote to-day will determine which side has the most influence in the Legislature."

Many an ambitious young politician two years since, as he read in the newspapers of the day accounts of President Arthur's brilliant state banquets, and sketched the luxurious menu including all the richest and costliest delicacies of land, sea and air, washed down with seven brands of choice imported wines, thought like the buccaneer that it was a glorious thing to be a king, even for four years only in such a round of pleasure. Nature, however, demands a strict settlement of all who indulge in the excesses of the table. A letter in the Philadelphia Times tells the result in few words. "His stomach first rebelled. Digestive organs and liver refused to do their work." The luxurious Executive is a confirmed invalid.

Madame Helbron, the singer who died recently in Europe, left a fortune of $600,000 as the fruits of her silver song.

An English traveler says: "Nowhere in America have I met with vulgarities in its proper sense." He couldn't. Vulgarities never have a proper sense.

A wealthy Breckinridge county farmer has been in the habit of rigging himself up in tramp style and working the charity organizations of Louisville for nest runs of money. He was discovered the other day.

A temperature of 70 degrees last Thursday and Friday was followed by a regular lark of the winds which painted the sky so dark on Saturday, that gas-light was resorted to during the flurry. The mercury crept down to freezing point Sunday night.

Jas. Fredell Waddell, Captain of the Shenandoah, the last Confederate privateer to succumb to the fate of war, is dead. He sailed his sloop craft into Northern waters and played safe havoc among the Yankee whaling vessels for several months after Lee's surrender, not knowing that the Confederacy was a thing of the past.

Sol Smith Russell, the comedian, was arrested at the instance of the Law and Order League, of Cincinnati, for playing in that city on Sunday. Cincinnati has licensed Sunday theatricals for some time and a strongly organized opposition is trying to break up the practice which is asserted to be so highly demoralizing.

Gen. S. W. Price, of Louisville, who followed his profession in this place many years since, has sold his portrait of General George H. Thomas, the hero of the battle of Nashville, to the Congressional Library Committee for $3,000. The artist, a most reliable, refined and worthy gentleman, has been afflicted for years with blindness, and his brush is laid aside forever.

Edward Johnson, of Bart County, Ill., is a regular Kentucky hero from the head waters &c. His employer turned him off; he shot him dead for R. A. posse started in pursuit of the murderer, who had armed himself with a Winchester rifle. He killed two of his pursuers and wounded several others. Being pressed hard, he took refuge in a barn where 100 men besieged him. He assuaged himself by shooting holes through their hats and clothing. At last reinforcements arrived and they burned the barn.

Senator Logan has written a play. The great grammarian has put himself on record between the lids of a book, and his adversaries are holding a love feast. "In this play he has set forth all the secrets of the Knights of the Golden Circle, and, under a thin disguise, a large number of prominent persons are introduced. The chapters devoted to the part played by the peace members of the Democratic party, known under the name of Copperheads in the organized propaganda of the Knights of the Golden Circle, are full of statements likely to arouse fierce discussion."

Speaker Carlisle in an interview the other day expressed himself on the condition of the public business as follows: "Matters are fairly well advanced, much more so than would have been possible under the old rule. The Pension Bill and the urgent appropriation bills have been passed, and the Indian Appropriation Bill has been considered, and will probably be passed Tuesday. On the calendar are the Post-office, Army, Military Academy, District of Columbia, and Consular Appropriation Bills. All these with the exception of the District of Columbia Bill, have been reported from committees, to whom the work was distributed, under the new rules. The Naval Appropriation Bill is not quite ready but will be in a few days. Meanwhile the Appropriation Committee has advanced with its work under sub-committees much further than would have been possible with the old rules. We have passed more bills than would have been possible under the old methods. They are bills, too, about which there has been no question of policy and little difference of opinion. So, on the whole, we are getting along well. Some of us hope to adjourn by the first of June."

The mutual dependence of capital and labor upon each other will soon be better understood. There is the possibility that circumstances will force a better understanding. These two great factors in the world's progress now stand glaring at each other, the laborer demanding a recognition of his rights and a just estimate of his services, the money king assuming a high order of indifference as if he could dispense with labor altogether. Capital operating through labor lays bare opportunities of a wonderful civilization. Labor operating on capital makes certain the world's progress. If either is to be dispensed with, the world could better afford to part with the capitalist; but both are necessary to maintain the equipoise of civilization, and, if each had a more philosophical understanding of the other's condition, there would be less moneyed despotism and less blood and thunder anarchism.

The April Eclectic recommends itself strongly to the lover of sound thought and good literature. The place of honor is given to a discussion of Mr. Gladstone's recent articles on the biblical cosmogony, by Prof. Huxley and Mr. Henry Drummond. An interesting paper on "Millaix," by Walter Armstrong, gives a graphic sketch of the man who, take him all in all, stands at the head of the English art world. Mr. Theodore Child's paper on the United States, entitled "Through the States," is caustic, but he often hits the nail on the head, and read between the lines shows a deep appreciation and admiration. Frederick Harrison attacks a large class, with deserved satire, in his article "A Pedantic Nuisance." E. L. Godkin contributes a scholarly and searching analysis of Republican government in "A New View of American Government," and this paper is well seconded by Mr. G. C. Swayne's dialogue on the Irish difficulty. Other striking papers are "The Gladstone Myth," a brilliant piece of satirical humor, and John Morley's discussion of "Sir H. Maine on Popular Government." The Literary Notes, Foreign Literary Notes and Miscellany are, as usual, full and interesting.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourdon, Ind., has written a book, and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE. Sold by J. R. Armistead.

Al Crane is still the barrier to an adjustment of the troubles at the Beaver Creek mines.

The Flemingsburg Democrat says that a small crop of tobacco will be raised this year, there being no money at the ruling figures for planting.

The Flemingsburg Democrat says that Hiram Day, of Hillsboro, was knocked down and run over by a plow pulled by a runaway team, tearing loose the muscles of his left arm and wounding him probably fatally.

Wm. I. Fraikes, a German residing four miles from Owensboro, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself. He climbed upon the roof of his meat-house, secured one end of a rope to a timber, and with the other about his neck, he jumped off. His head was almost severed.

H. B. Garner wishes to state that he has at last found an article he can sell on its merits. It is with pleasure he guarantees to the public Acker's English Remedy as a sure and never-failing cure for Asthma, Coughs, Whooping Cough, Croup, and all Lung Troubles. It is the standard remedy for Consumption. He has never found its equal.

The Revenue and Taxation Bill.

Frankfort Capital.

The following synopsis of Article 1 of the Revenue and Taxation Bill, as approved by the House of Representatives, indicates the important features of the measure.

Annual tax 32 cents (this rate may be changed when the bill is perfected); State and counties have a five-year lien for taxes on property of real estate.

According to a uniform rate, real estate for the purposes of taxation shall include all lands within this State, and all buildings and improvements erected on or affixed to the same, and in assessing said lands the assessor shall take into consideration its increased value on account of all improvements thereon; personal estate shall, for purposes of taxation, include every species and character of property, intangible as well as tangible.

It is the duty of the legal title, or of equitable title, claimant or bailee, in possession on 15th September, is liable for taxes, but as between themselves, the holder of the equitable title shall file the property and pay the tax, whether he has possession or not, at time for payment; all estate and interest therein on the tax-book shall be assessed, and the owner or possessor thereof pay tax to the authorized collector; conflicting titles to land and how shall not affect the value for purposes of taxation. Exemptions: Property of the United States; securities of the United States; which by act of Congress are exempted from State taxation; and two cows exceeding in value fifty dollars; growing crops; all poultry on hand for family use; household goods and chattels not over two hundred and fifty dollars in value; provisions on hand for family use; not over one hundred dollars in value; public securities, except those owned by joint-stock companies; of officers declaring dividends; property of the State, counties, cities and towns necessary to the government thereof; public schools, colleges, and all property of seminaries, asylums, hospitals, infirmaries, colleges, and churches, except that parsonages are exempt to the amount of five thousand dollars only, nothing herein to be construed as exempting property used for employment for gain of any person, nor any property except that devoted exclusively to the religious and educational purposes of the institution—provided that "funds as well as property" of charitable institutions—except the real estate of such institutions—shall be exempt as herein specified. If two cows over fifty dollars in value are selected, the excess of value shall be taxed. Libraries, statues, and other works of art owned by counties, cities and towns may be exempt.

Assessor shall require assessed to file the amount for each year, and to whom the sources on the day to which the assessment relates, after taking out his or her indebtedness from said amount, but in estimating the indebtedness no account shall be taken of debts contracted as surety or guarantor. Pistols taxed two dollars and fifty cents each.

A Unique Cyclopaedia.

An extremely valuable Cyclopaedia, and of very great popular interest is Allen's Cyclopaedia of Universal Literature, Volume II, which is just published. Novel in plan, and novel in form, at a price low even compared with Mr. Allen's always low prices, this volume gives in its nearly 500 pages biographical sketches of one hundred and eleven prominent authors, with characteristic selections from their writings. The following authors, among others, appear in this volume: Anubion, St. Augustine, D'Auvergne, Bacon, Balzac, Bannett, Bannin, Barbauld, Beaumont, Beecher (several of the name), Bentham, Bion, Bjornson, Black (William), Blackstone, Blesington (Comtesse), and Boccaccio; this representing nearly all ages and all nations even in this volume—American, English, French, German, Italian, Greek, Latin, Swedish, Portuguese, Scotch, Irish, Norwegian, Danish and authors—from the period 280 B. C. to A. D. 1886. The literary and mechanical workmanship are both of a high order. The work is really one that ought to find a place in every home library; it offers a fund of entertainment and instruction that will prove well-nigh inexhaustible. The price, 60 cents a volume, makes its possession possible to even nearly every school-boy. The work is published also in Parts of 100 pages each (exchangeable at any time for bound volumes), which are sent post-paid for 15 cents each. Every reader of this notice ought to get at least a specimen Part for examination.

Cost of Cars.

See Line Gazette.

A first-class standard eight-wheel American locomotive, with automatic train and driver brakes, is worth about $7,000. A modern sleeper, with forty-two inch steel tire wheels, six-wheel trucks and steel axles, is worth about $10,000. A passenger car, with forty-two inch steel tire wheels and steel axles, is worth about $5,500. A second-class coach, with thirty-three inch steel tire wheels and steel axles, is worth about $4,200. A postal car of modern design, with forty-two inch steel tire wheels and steel axles, is worth about $5,500. A fifty-foot baggage car, of modern design, with same running gear, is worth about $2,500. A standard thirty-foot box and stock car, with swing motion trucks and case wheels and iron axles, is worth about $4,000. A coal car, with same trucks, is worth about $325. A standard flat car is worth about $300. Coal-wagons are worth from $500 to $1,200, owing to the build.

Marriage license was issued to H. C. Fulkner and Miss Lucia Hart yesterday.
A dispatch received in this city from Chicago yesterday afternoon states that the labor problem is growing alarming throughout the country.
The case of the Commonwealth vs. Joe Wilson, colored, charged with committing a rape upon the person of Lulu Belle Crutcher, was tried yesterday in the Circuit Court.
Montana mining men will present Senator Beck a paper-weight in the form of a silver brick, weighing nearly a pound. It is inscribed "James B. Beck, defender of the people's money."
The House has passed the bill making gambling a felony. The bill was amended with a provision that it shall not apply to persons selling combination or French pools on the race track. Tuesday the bill passed the Senate and as soon as signed by the Governor will become a law.

Strikers Struck.
The tailors, who struck for higher wages in Jas. Pye & Co.'s merchant tailoring establishment Monday, met with rather an unhappy consummation of their festivities. No sooner was the bolt organized than they proceeded to fill up on liquor. Late in the evening they paraded the streets four abreast in a besotted condition. About dusk they went down to the old Merritt house back of the Court House and proceeded to shell it with rocks. The police came along and took two of them in charge. Henry Knight and J. Pat McArdle, the leaders of the strikers. The officers marched them around to police headquarters and things began to assume a gloomy aspect. They were on the point of placing them in the lock-up for the night, when Patrick raised his hoarse voice in pleading tones and said, "Place Mr. Policeman, and shurely yez wouldn't put such a nicely dressed 'by as meself in jail, would yez?" and the sympathetic officers gave them time to arrange a bond. One of them put up a $10 bill and the other got the two German comrades with unpronounceable names to deposit their watches as a guarantee that he would appear before Judge Brasler Tuesday morning. Early Tuesday morning Knight and McArdle left the city by the cross the route, after first taking a parting drink with Col. Tom Edmundson. The two duped Germans returned to work when they learned that their festive companions had left.

Death of Dr. James Wheeler.
Monday night about 12 o'clock, Dr. James Wheeler passed away at his residence five miles south of this city on the Clarksville pike. When the news reached here Tuesday, there was an universal manifestation of grief over the death of one who had been so intimately and so honorably connected with the prosperity of our country. For years he has been seen on our streets taking an intense interest in every movement that promoted the public good. Generation succeeded generation to find this kind old gentleman standing firm by his post of duty as a citizen and a philanthropist. Dr. James Wheeler was born in the county of Middlesex, England, in the year 1811. Early in life he came to this country and soon became identified with our institutions and forms of government. His education was mainly received in South Carolina. Some of his school mates have since borne illustrious names. He graduated from Columbia College in a class with Pickens Butler and Lewis T. Wigfall, and all through his life his associations have been among the nations good and great. In 1841 he was married to Miss Lizzie Watkins in the State of Virginia, and eight children are left to mourn the loss of a loving father. About the year 1842 he moved to this country when he entered upon the practice of his profession. He served the people for near forty years as a physician, and his kind ministrations, though he abandoned his practice several years since, are still fresh in the memories of those who were the recipients of his care and attention.
No statement of isolated facts can do justice to the life of man. To know and appreciate him, one should have been with him, felt his ennobling influence and watched the high instincts of his nature carving out his honorable career. His character was made up of that firmness and resolution given him by his ancestors combined with the energy and adaptability of his adopted land, and over it all was the warm, gentle glow of sympathy and sentiment as of an Italian sun. We remember him now as often times he spoke a kind word or related an experience full of wisdom and instruction, and he left the world carrying with him the admiration and esteem of the youth of our country, and the confidence and love of older people. He was a member of the Episcopal church and served his Master long and well. Wednesday afternoon the funeral services were held at Grace church, Rev. J. W. Venable officiating. The church was crowded with sorrowing friends and relatives, and when the last word had been spoken, the funeral cortege followed the remains with solemn tread to their last resting place in the City Cemetery, where under the sentinelship of angels his dust sleeps.

Around Town.
Mr. H. B. Long is still very ill.
Capt. E. R. Cook is much improved.

W. W. Caldwell, charged with the murder of Green Stevens in Wildcat Hollow, Christian county, was tried in the Circuit Court yesterday and acquitted. Caldwell is a brother-in-law of Lieutenant Governor Hindman.
We learn that J. H. Craft, raised tobacco last year grown with the Anchor Brand Tobacco Grower 34 inches long, and made in proportion. It seems that this brand of fertilizer is giving better satisfaction than any other brand on the market.
Judge Joe McCarroll announces his withdrawal to-day from the canvass for Circuit Judge. He is a good lawyer and popular gentleman, who has a host of friends and well-wishers, with plenty of time ahead for a useful and honorable career.
I am receiving a large lot of the latest style Boys' Youths' and men's clothing, for spring wear. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

M. LESTINE.
The latest game of cards is "Discard," played by four persons of the same sex always. Everytime a hand is played the beaten partners have to discard some article of clothing. It is considered healthy in hot weather when there are no mosquitoes about.
"Horse Shoe Brand" Corn Grower will produce more bushels of good corn to the acre than any other brand on the market. It makes 90 bushels per acre.
J. R. GREEN & CO.
Wm. Wood, colored, who raised the disturbance at Mr. Newton Payne's residence one night last week, was arrested yesterday by Policemen Chris Biggerstaff and Wadlington and lodged in jail on the charge of house breaking. Wood is the same negro who gave Sheriff Boyd a lively fight last fall.
After all, twenty-one years at hard work in a prison, on rough fare, in shabby head and zebra clothes, is a dear price for a man to pay for the sport of killing a fellow being. Two murderers who have been convicted at the present term of the Circuit Court will regain their freedom in the year 1907 if they live so long.

Mr. J. W. West, near Kirkmansville, used Anchor Brand Tobacco Grower in cultivating his crop of tobacco last year, and he says he made a thousand pounds of tobacco to the acre in using this fertilizer. He further states that the advantage in using the Anchor Brand is that it holds out longer in the season and does not spinde and die out, like other brands of fertilizers.
We call attention to the advertisement of Newman & Houston's hotel and restaurant, Nashville, Tenn., and take pleasure in recommending their house to the traveling public. They are first-class men and keep a first-class house in every respect. Associated with them is one of our old friends, Phil H. Wills, who will always be glad to see his friends.
Just received a fine lot of stylish Spring goods, which I am going to sell at bottom prices. Gents' clothing and ladies' furnishing goods in all styles. Call and examine my goods and you will purchase.
M. LESTINE.
A reporter dropped into the prescription drug store yesterday and the courteous proprietor, Mr. G. E. Gaither, showed him some of the most elaborate and attractive designs in Easter cards ever brought to this city. They are really beautiful and the ladies should not fail to call and see them. Mr. Gaither also carries the handsomest line of stationery ever before displayed in Hopkinsville. His box paper is exquisite, and there were all kinds and qualities in abundance.
There are many thousand hard-working farmers who do not sell five hundred dollars worth of crops in a year. In this class of small farmers are to be found many of the most substantial and intelligent members of society. They are moral, sober, valuable citizens. Besides their property is all in real estate and is taxed heavily to keep up civil government. These men are amazed at the strikes of single working men in cities, who get much larger pay than themselves, and pay only two dollars poll tax.
The "HORSE SHOE BRAND" Tobacco Grower stands without a rival as to quality, price and mechanical condition. It furnishes food for the plant from the beginning of the crop to its maturity. It makes tobacco that cures easily and uniformly. No spotting. It largely increases the yield. The color and texture just right, and always brings the top market price. Our best farmers know these facts and are buying this brand in preference to any other.
J. R. GREEN & CO.
Dr. Granville Medley has sold out his dentistry office to Dr. A. P. Campbell and has purchased Dr. R. R. Bourne's office over the Bank of Hopkinsville, where he will be pleased to serve his old friends and customers. Dr. Medley is well up both in the theory and practice of his profession. He is a man of wonderful mechanical skill, and his profound knowledge of dentistry entitles him to a place in the first ranks of his profession. Dr. Bourne, we are sorry to say, intends to leave this city and locate in the West in a month or two.

HENRY MARTIN'S TRIAL.
The Speeches—Scenes in the Court Room—Attempted Escape of the Prisoner.
The story of the crime for which Henry Martin, colored, was tried this week was told in full in Tuesday's New Era. By 10 o'clock Tuesday morning all the testimony had been introduced, and Mr. C. H. Bush opened the argument for the defense. His speech was well rounded out and he made an eloquent effort in behalf of his client. He was followed by County Attorney E. G. Sebré in behalf of the Commonwealth. Mr. Sebré made one of the best speeches of his life, stating his argument in clear, forcible terms and presenting the case in a powerful manner. Col. L. A. Syper made an adroit argument for the accused, and a timely sustained his reputation as a criminal lawyer of superior ability. His reasoning was sharp and incisive and he made the facts talk well and favorably for his client. The Court then adjourned for dinner. Shortly before 1 o'clock the Circuit Court rose, with a desperate grin Martin lay upon her lips, and with her arms extended in the most beseeching manner, she cried out: "Please don't hang my poor friendless boy," and then fell upon her knees sobbing and crying aloud for the life of her son. In a few minutes some friends came and removed her from the court room.
After the jury had retired, Deputy Sheriff Handberry, Jailer A. B. Long and Esquire Alex. Campbell started with Martin to jail. Mr. Handberry held Martin by his right arm and Mr. Long by his left. When they started up the steps over the fence at the rear of the Court House, Mr. Handberry went up first with Martin between himself and Mr. Long. Just as Handberry stepped over the top of the fence and was standing on the narrow landing on the other side, Martin gave a lunge, intending to shove him off onto the ground beneath, a height of some eight feet, himself going with him and falling on top of him, and at the same time break loose from Mr. Long. He no doubt thought the fall would knock Handberry senseless and that he would arise and make a break for liberty. But Mr. Long had been led to suspect the prisoner's intentions from his nervous manner and had him well in hand, so that when he made the lunge Mr. Long jerked him back and saved Handberry a fall as he also clung to the prisoner. In a moment the two officers had Martin with his head down and his heels in the street, and then they laid him on the ground. They then lifted him up and marked him on to the jail. Martin remarked that "you all don't give a fellow a—bit of showing" and burst into tears. The prisoner was taking desperate chances, but escape was impossible as he would have been brought down before he could have run twenty yards.
After the jury left the court room, the crowd still lingered expecting them to return a verdict every minute. The hours wore on and time for adjournment came, but the punishment was not determined. Early Wednesday morning the jury filed into the court room. The accused was brought in looking weak but resolute, and when the clerk read the verdict of "guilty," fixing the punishment at twenty-one years in the penitentiary, his countenance brightened and a look of desperation gave place to one of hope. Messrs. Syper and Bush have been remarkably successful in their criminal cases this court, and in each instance they have so managed their evidence and argument as to gain milder verdicts than were generally expected.

Syrup of Figs.
Manufactured only by the California Fig Syrup Co., San Francisco, Cal., is Nature's Own True Laxative. This pleasant California liquid remedy may be had of Mr. H. B. Garner. Sample bottles free and large bottles at fifty cents and one dollar. It is the most pleasant, prompt, and effective remedy known to cleanse the system; to act on the Liver, Kidney and Bowels gently, yet thoroughly; to dispel Headaches, Colds, and Fevers; to cure Constipation, Indigestion and kindred ills.
Dry Goods.
Cincinnati is called "The Queen City," Louisville "The Falls City," Hopkinsville may be fitly called "The City of Cheap Goods." The merchants are opening up magnificent stocks of dress goods of every conceivable fabric pattern, color and quality. Certainly in the large display which their counters offer all tastes may be pleased. A traveling visitor said recently that one seldom saw such elegant stores and rich merchandise in places of the size of Hopkinsville. A lady observed the other day that our merchants had surpassed themselves this spring in beautiful and attractive dress fabrics of all kinds. It is astonishing to see how much material of excellent quality a few dollars will buy in one of these large establishments whose proprietors must have nerves of steel to purchase such heavy stocks. Our country readers can come here confident that Hopkinsville offers them a market for their spring trading unparalleled for cheapness and intrinsic value of all commodities.
Its Delicacy of Flavor
And the efficacy of its action have rendered the famous California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, immensely popular. It cleanses and tones up the clogged and feverish system, and dispels Headaches, Colds and Fevers. Sample bottles free, and large bottles for sale by H. B. Garner.

Farmers, Read! Read!!
GRAYSON SPRINGS, Ky., Jan. 25.
I used Homestead Tobacco Grower on a measured acre of land, and raised on this acre 1,783 pounds of tobacco, during the past year. I weighed the tobacco Jan. 2nd, when it was in dry drying order. The acre of land upon which this tobacco was raised would not have made more than 650 pounds without the Fertilizer. I believe I can make 2,500 pounds to the acre with Homestead during a good season. If a man is spiritually sick let him go to his spiritual adviser; if he has malaria let him go to his medical adviser, but if he has old, worn-out land let him go to V. M. Metcalfe, General Agent for Homestead, Hopkinsville, Ky., and he will furnish him the remedy that never fails to cure.
